IBPS RRB Interview Preparation Tips

1. Consider the Newspaper as your Best Friend:

Yes, if you do not follow newspapers, the first and foremost tip would be to start considering the newspaper as your best friend as read it every day. If you find reading the entire newspaper overwhelming, you can begin by reading the headlines and then gradually reading the articles that interest you the most. Reading of the newspaper will help you improve your general knowledge which is something that your employer may want to test.

IBPS RRB Interview Tip - Make a professional CV:

You must make a professional CV and bring it along with you to the IBPS RRB interview. Your CV is a representation of you on a paper therefore you must take special care in writing and formatting it. Be sure to include all the necessary details.

Take a mock interview:

This is one of the most effective ways to check upon your confidence and speaking skills for the interview. If you know someone who takes interviews of people as a part of their work, that's great. You can have them take your interview as a rehearsal before you face the actual interview. However, in case you do not have any such acquaintances, you can tell any of your family member or friend to prepare some basic interview questions and ask them to you. You can have them assess you and tell you about your weaknesses.
